Comprehensive Research Evaluation (CRE)

The purpose of CRE is to ensure a scholar's multi-disciplinary appreciation of management issues and his/her readiness to undertake original research in his/her chosen knowledge domain. The evaluation is conducted by a CRE committee constituted specifically for each scholar and chaired by a faculty member from the Area of his/her specialization. The Committee determines whether a scholar has developed an in-depth understanding of the inter-disciplinary nature of various knowledge domains, and is able to develop appropriate models / solutions based on the work of other scholars in these knowledge domains. Thus, the extent to which the CRE is rigorous and challenging will in turn determine the extent to which the scholar is able to develop research competencies deemed fit for the thesis work.
