

Statement of purpose

“There’s no easy way out, there’s no shortcut home.” is something I have learnt to live by through early stages in my life. Having an ambitious outlook towards excelling in academics, I have a passionate inclination towards the subject of business management. There is something about the drive, integrity and acumen that goes into establishing and managing a successful business which I feel drawn towards against all the other endeavors of adulthood. Business is a people’s subject and revolves around understanding and bringing out the best capabilities of the workforce efficiently and in the most productive fashion. The critical thinking and risk taking involved in the decision making is a practical approach which I have already diligently been applying in all my projects and activities in my previous classes.

I have been an active part of the majority of the extracurriculars such as interacting with international students under the program of generation global and discussing lifestyles and world problems from different perspectives. Another project I headed for three years; EUMIND, where we had to collaborate with the Dutch students from Netherlands, discuss and come up with creative solutions to real life problems faced by multiple students across the globe. I was able to lead my team to Certificates of Excellence for two consecutive years, ensuring we worked as a well-oiled team and were able to carry out the designated tasks and adhere to the deadlines, this enabled us to be part of the student exchange program. I have headed various events such as the Knowledge Cafe program and Science Day which were internal sources of competitions juggling between debates, seminars, interactive sessions and various competitions.

I have been on the forefront of the planning committee of every event the school has hosted, may it be the MUN’s, graduation ceremonies, farewells, inter-house competitions or the linguistic fiesta.

I captained the football and handball team for two years and also continue to pursue athletics, skating and cycling on the side. More of an outdoor person, activities such as trekking and hiking are my rejuvenation. I have been actively involved in the clean-up and restoration of beaches, lakes and the Aarey forests, working with the environment refreshes me and urges me to give back more to society’s fundamentals.

Writing poetry, short stories and essays are something I enjoy thoroughly along with reading the genres of mystery, horror and thriller. Representing the school in numerous debates, elocutions, and poetry recitation competitions, I have exploited the opportunities of public speaking to benefit me to the maximum, one of them being the TEDX platform. I was elected as the Head Girl of my school in 2018 and the school Sport's Captain in 2020, both positions promising new experiences and learnings.

It is safe to say leadership is difficult but naturally to me and it will undoubtedly be a prosperous asset for the University. Learning about the inclination Universal has towards the environment has intrigued me further to believe that I will be part of a much bigger community rather than just pursuing my business degree. This along with the approach on holistic development has enabled me to envision a very bright future in the institution on the grounds of academics and extracurriculars, therefore I believe Universal will help me bring forth my best potential on all grounds and give back to the society through my success.
